Impact statement

I have contributed to the community building of first year students in University of Eastern Finland by being a student tutor for 3 years.

I supported the doctoral student community in University of Eastern Finland by being a board member in the doctoral student association during 3 years in 2018-2021. During that time I and established a newspaper to serve the doctoral students.

Currently, I am the editor-in-chief of Metodologia, an international journal in methodology. The journal supports the diversity of researchers. In many fields, such as mathematical theory of physics, it is difficult to publish, because the results cannot be easily verified by experiments, and they do not provide applications.

During my teaching career, I have emphasized safe, fair, and down-to-earth environment where students can relax and participate as who they are.
